THE MASS OF ALL AGES

For almost 1900 years the same Mass has been given. Finding its roots in the Old Testament Passover supper (meal), Jesus is saying in essence to His disciples, I am the Lamb, this is My blood, that causes the death angel to Passover you.

The Catechism of the Catholic Church

1345   As early as the second century we have the witness of St. Justin Martyr for the basic lines of the order of the Eucharistic celebration.

They have stayed the same until our own day for all the great liturgical families. St. Justin wrote to the pagan emperor Antoninus Pius (138-161) around the year 155, explaining what Christians did:

On the day we call the day of the sun (Sunday), all who dwell in the city or country gather in the same place.
The memoirs of the apostles and the writings of the prophets are read, as much as time permits. (The readings of the Scriptures)

When the reader has finished, he who presides over those gathered admonishes and challenges them to imitate these beautiful things. (The Homily or Sermon)

Then we all rise together and offer prayers for ourselves . . . and for all others, wherever they may be, so that we may be found righteous by our life and actions, and faithful to the commandments, so as to obtain eternal salvation. (Prayer of the Faithful or Eucharistic Prayer)

When the prayers are concluded we exchange the kiss. (The Sign of Peace)

Then someone brings bread and a cup of water and wine mixed together to him who presides over the brethren.

He takes them and offers praise and glory to the Father of the universe, through the name of the Son and of the Holy Spirit and for a considerable time he gives thanks (in Greek: eucharistian) that we have been judged worthy of these gifts.

When he has concluded the prayers and thanksgivings, all present give voice to an acclamation by saying: 'Amen.'

When he who presides has given thanks and the people have responded, those whom we call deacons give to those present the "eucharisted" bread, wine and water and take them to those who are absent. (St. Justin, Apol. 1, 65-67)

In the Mass you celebrate both His sacrifice (the one offering for the forgiveness of your sins) and you partake of the risen Christ (His whole Person, soul and Divinity). Both of these things happen at each Mass and has continued to do so for several thousand years.
